Appointment of Public Affairs Officer

Dear Candidate,

Thank you for your interest in our role of Public Affairs Officer at British Heart Foundation (BHF).

It is my privilege to lead the Policy and Influencing team for one of the UK's largest charities and the biggest independent funder of research into cardiovascular disease in the UK.

Our vision is a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer. A world where fewer hearts stop without warning and more of us can live well for longer with the people we love.

We know achieving this won't be easy. But thanks to decades of discovery and scientific advances – we are more confident than ever.

Together, we believe we can stop the devastation for the millions affected by these conditions. All it takes is passionate people like you standing alongside us and believing in the power of research to create a better, brighter, healthier world for everyone.

As a Public Affairs Officer you'll contribute to the work of the Policy and Public Affairs team, providing public affairs support as part of our policy-led influencing strategies.

We want an exceptional colleague who exemplifies and champions our values; brave, informed, compassionate and driven. It's an incredibly exciting time to be part of our team. We are more ambitious and determined than ever – because the potential cures and treatments we need are in sight. You could be part of getting us there sooner, so thank you for your interest.

BHF is also proud that we are working towards being a truly diverse organisation, with an Equality, Diversity and Inclusion (EDI) strategy setting out a roadmap of changes we want to see. Our growing commitment to equality, diversity and inclusion spans across our organisation and we pride ourselves on being an inclusive employer who puts diversity at the heart of everything that we do.

So, if you feel you have the skills and experience that we are looking for, and you share our determination to help fund lifesaving research, then we would be delighted to hear from you.

John Maingay

Director Policy and Influencing

About us

If you had a heart condition in the early 1960s, your chances of survival were slim. At that time, cardiovascular disease caused more than half of all deaths in the UK, and 7 out of 10 people who had a heart attack in the UK died.

It was clear that something had to change, and fast. So, a group of cardiologists formed British Heart Foundation (BHF) in 1961 and set out to find lifesaving answers through science and provide health information and support to those who need it most.

Since then, research we've funded has been at the forefront of scientific progress across the globe. We've helped transform treatments for heart attack, helped to restart hearts with the development of portable defibrillators and proved that statins can save lives, offering hope to those who desperately need it.

These are incredible achievements and a testament to the passion of the researchers we fund and BHF staff, volunteers, and supporters. Thanks in part to these breakthroughs and many others, the number of people dying from cardiovascular disease each year in the UK has nearly halved since BHF was set up. But our work is far from over.

Despite the strides we've made, cardiovascular disease remains the world's biggest killer. In the UK alone, 1 in 4 of us die from them. It affects people of all ages and can stop hearts unexpectedly – leaving gaping holes in families and futures in tatters. This is why our research is still needed.

Hearts are precious. We write from them. Sing from them. Follow our dreams with them. And while we understand more about them today than we did seven decades ago, there is still so much left to discover. BHF can't tackle these conditions alone. The only way we can rise to some of the biggest challenges in cardiovascular medicine and save more lives is by continuing to fund scientific research.

Our vision is a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer. Where fewer hearts stop without warning and more of us can live well with the people we love.

We know achieving this won't be easy. But thanks to decades of discovery and scientific advances, we are more confident than ever. Together, we want to stop the devastation for the millions affected by cardiovascular disease. All it takes is passionate people like you and believing in the power of research to create a better, brighter, healthier world for everyone.

“CPR and heart surgery saved my life when I was six. Research made that happen.”

Jadyn Briggs

Being a responsible charity

Every year we make further progress to being a more sustainable, fairer and well-governed charity.

We raise money to fund research to find cures and develop treatments for the world's biggest killers. And we are determined to do this in a responsible way.

When it comes to environmental factors, links to cardiovascular disease are clear. Research shows that people living with cardiovascular disease are more likely to be negatively impacted by extreme weather such as intense heat and cold.

We're also committed to making BHF as sustainable as possible throughout its operations. This includes a commitment to reducing avoidable waste, and reducing our carbon footprint with a commitment to be a net zero organisation by 2045, at the latest.

This covers all areas of our activities, from direct emissions, such as the heating we use in our BHF offices and stores, to the much more significant indirect emissions from within our supply chain through to how the research we fund is undertaken.

Our sustainability targets are ambitious and have been designed in accordance with the Greenhouse Gas Protocol and the Science Based Targets Initiative (SBTi). Our roadmap to net zero has six focus areas.

- energy efficient and zero emission buildings
- zero emissions transport
- product sourcing and suppliers
- travel and logistics
- waste and circular economy
- responsible research funding.

BHF remains dedicated to investing our funds responsibly, in line with our mission and values.

Sometimes the research we fund may involve animals; this isn't something we take lightly and you can read more about our commitments in research on our website.

Our strategy

Our strategy sets out how we aim to save and improve lives on a scale more ambitious than ever before.

Our vision is a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer.

We'll get closer to that day by focusing on three goals:

- We will stop heart disease before it starts, by revolutionising how we prevent it
- We will save more lives from heart disease by discovering groundbreaking treatments and cures
- We will support everyone with heart disease to live a longer, healthier life.

Belonging

Our push for equality, diversity and inclusion takes many forms, including how we manage our organisation, and how our research funding helps to tackle health inequalities.

An important starting point is making sure BHF's workforce reflects the general population so we can better represent the experiences and voices of the communities we support. A more diverse, inclusive, and fair BHF will not only improve the quality of what we do, but the impact we have.

The ongoing work of our Health Inequalities and Research Inequalities working groups demonstrate our commitments to improve EDI beyond our own workforce, and into the wider healthcare systems and research ecosystems we work so closely with

We want all of our BHF colleagues to have development and progression opportunities, and to embed a more inclusive culture throughout our organisation. Our EDI strategy sets out our roadmap of the changes we want to see.

We have a number of affinity groups within the organisation. These include spaces for working parents, individuals from different religious, racial, and ethnic backgrounds, members of the LGBTQIA+ community and those with disabilities and long term health conditions. These are designed to be spaces for colleagues to feel connected, included and heard.

Colleagues frequently organise internal events to foster a sense of belonging, often led by one of our Affinity Groups which serve as a focal point for colleagues with shared interests to come together. For example, we enjoyed a fantastic and joy-filled celebration of Diwali at both our London and Birmingham offices.

We want to fund lifesaving research for everyone. We can help to achieve this by welcoming colleagues from all backgrounds to come and be part of our BHF family.

Building an inclusive and supportive environment

We recognise the importance of ensuring BHF offers an environment that allows all our colleagues and volunteers to thrive. Our equality, diversity and inclusion (EDI) strategy, continues to deliver positive improvements to ensure this is the case.

Whilst working at BHF, we actively encourage our colleagues to feel safe to bring their true selves to work. We strive to create a culture where colleagues are inquisitive about diversity and keen to get involved in all activities which make individuality and inclusivity part of what we do every single day.

Improving diversity in research

Making the world a fairer place is an important goal, one that we are proud to contribute to by tackling inequalities in cardiovascular health, improving the diversity of our research workforce, and making BHF a more inclusive place to work.

We want to have achieved greater inclusivity in the funding and the design of research, as well as in the cardiovascular research community. We have focused on collating data that defines our starting point, so we can take the right action to improve diversity.

We've published our first research funding diversity report. The report provided valuable insight that is helping us shape our future actions to address under-representation in our research community.

Staff engagement

Every year we reinforce our EDI commitment through a colleague engagement survey, to help us understand how we can continue to improve.

One of the most important questions is whether BHF has created an environment where people of diverse backgrounds can succeed. Last year, 2023-24, we were at 86% and set a target score of 90% for January 2025 which we are pleased to say we achieved this year!

Enhancing our benefits

We aim to empower and support the health and wellbeing of everyone who works at BHF, and so we continually review our staff benefits to ensure they are fair and attractive both to current and potential employees.

We've recently added a holistic and flexible Support Leave provision for everyone. This provides extra paid time off to support colleagues or others close to them during a life event.

Celebrating Pride

Pride is a chance for us to learn and show support for the LGBTQIA+ community. BHF colleagues have taken part in Pride events across the country since 2018, including Pride marches in Edinburgh, Cardiff, Belfast and London.

Wellbeing

We take immense pride in fostering an environment that prioritises the health, safety, and wellbeing of our employees, volunteers, and customers. Our excellence in health, safety and wellbeing is about cultivating a culture where every individual feels valued and safe.

One of our standout initiatives is the Live Well Work Well project group, which plays a pivotal role in enhancing workplace wellbeing. This group organises a myriad of activities and resources aimed at promoting and supporting mental, physical, social and financial health.

At BHF, we believe that a safe and healthy workplace is the foundation of success. As we continue to innovate and grow, our commitment to health, safety, and wellbeing remains unwavering. Join us and be a part of an organisation that not only values your professional contributions but also cares deeply about your overall wellbeing.

A flexibly connected organisation

Our flexibly connected programme allows colleagues to work flexibly, in a way that helps unlock their best work for the cause.

The programme has been engaging with our Champions network, gathering insights from colleagues through our Ways of Working Study, to continuously adapt the approach where needed. It was awarded the Best Flexible Working Strategy at the HR Excellence Awards.

Join us at BHF and be part of a team that truly cares about your wellbeing. Together, we can make work to a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer, while supporting each other every step of the way.

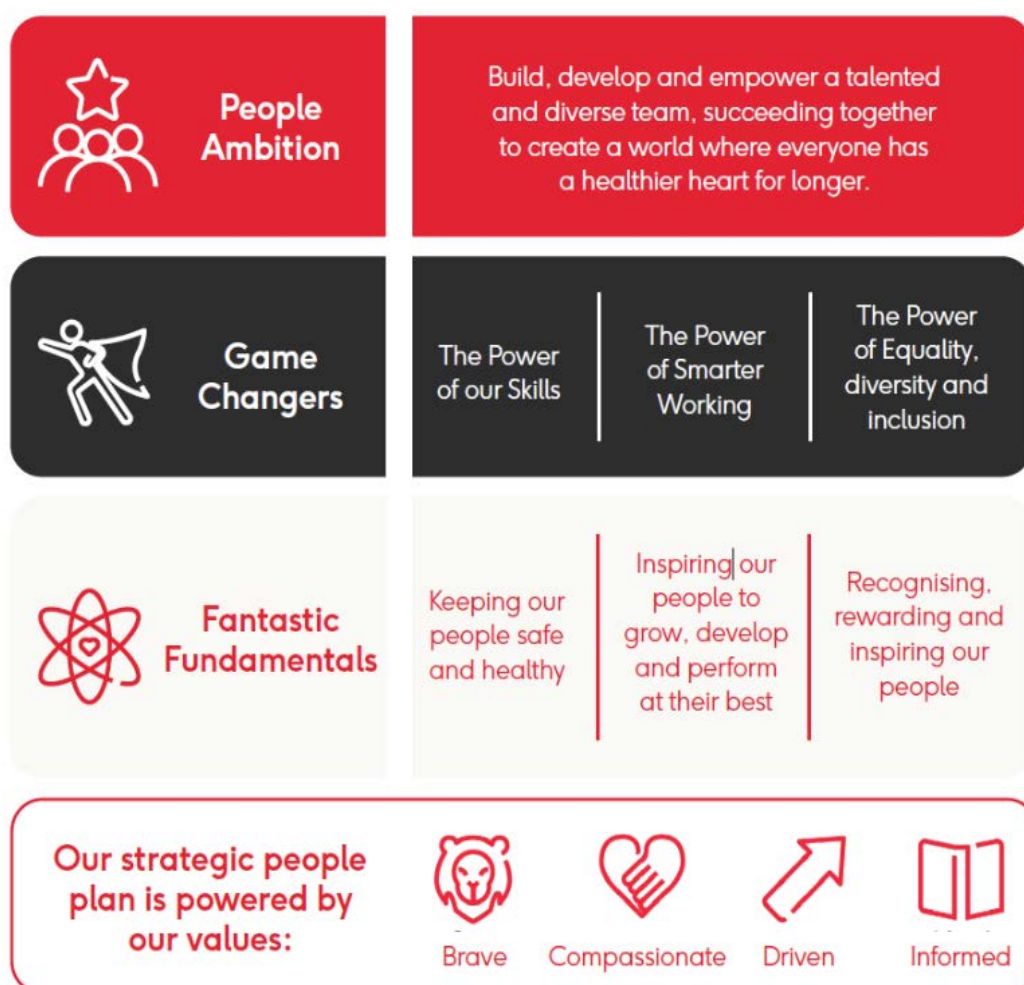

Our People Power

Our vision is a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer, but we can't get there without our brilliant colleagues and volunteers.

At the heart of Our People Power sits our central people ambition, through which we will drive performance to further progress and accelerate BHF's lifesaving work, leveraging the unique talents and skills of our people.

We will power up our people to bring their best every day, providing a brilliant work experience, continuing to make BHF a great place to work. Through inspiring, empowering and enabling our people, whatever their role and background, we will collectively power towards our vision as a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer.

To achieve our strategic aims, we need everyone pulling in the same direction. Our people ambition unites us all, bringing all our people (colleagues and volunteers) together to play their part in creating a world where everyone has a healthier heart for longer.

Our values

We are proud that the work we do is funding groundbreaking, lifesaving research. Our vision is a world in which everyone has a healthier heart for longer.

That's why our values are key to defining who we are, how we do things and how we can achieve our ambitions so that every pound we raise funds the research that keeps millions of hearts beating.

Brave

We speak out.
We're decisive.
We're innovative.

Role Summary

To contribute to the work of the Policy and Public Affairs team, providing public affairs support as part of our policy-led influencing strategies.

This role will support and improve outcomes for people with and affected by cardiovascular disease by influencing UK Government policy and legislation and health system decisions across the following areas, along with any others as identified by the Public Affairs Manager:

- Helping to ensure the UK’s life sciences research environment can thrive and that charity-funders are recognised as a vital part of this environment
- Ensuring that cardiovascular research is adequately invested in, and that it is a government research priority
- Tackling heart health inequalities that pertain to research and development, including the underrepresentation of underserved communities in clinical research, and the research workforce.

Supporting the Public Affairs Manager, this role will promote British Heart Foundation (BHF) to parliamentarians in Westminster, helping to ensure that key decision-makers recognise BHF as a leading medical research charity and the expert on heart health, whilst also look for ways to engage Parliamentarians with our work in their constituencies.

Key responsibilities

- Support the work of the Policy and Public Affairs team through providing public affairs advice and activities, as part of our policy-led influencing strategies. This includes:
- Take an active role in building relationships with key Westminster and Whitehall senior stakeholders and their staff, and with sector partners to stay joined up on shared priorities
- Contribute to the development and delivery of influencing plans to achieve policy aims in creative and impactful ways
- Contribute to a BHF political stakeholder engagement programme, including by identifying stakeholders, suggesting strategies for how to engage them based on intelligence on their priorities and coordinating contact
- Support the organisation of events to advance the BHF's influencing priorities, such as 1:1 meetings, ministerial roundtables, party conference activity and parliamentary receptions, and considering how patients and researchers are represented
- Prepare high-quality briefings and materials for external political audiences and senior internal stakeholders to support the delivery of BHF influencing priorities
- Use parliamentary monitoring and carrying out horizon scanning to advise colleagues across the organisation on Government and parliamentary activity, and proposed BHF responses
- Provide public affairs advice and support to, and proactively spotting opportunities to advance the interests of, coalitions of which the BHF is a member
- Stay abreast of key political trends and set piece events, such as the Budget, to help ensure BHF activity is appropriate and aligned with key Government messaging

General

- Manage relationships with external agencies relevant to particular projects
- Provide written updates to the wider organisation on our public affairs work
- Represent BHF at relevant stakeholder meetings as identified by the Public Affairs Manager. This may include deputising for more senior members of the team
- Attend party political conferences and meetings in Parliament
- Chair internal meetings relevant to particular projects
- Promote the use of social media to support the BHF's public affairs activities
- Champion our public affairs work across the charity
- Attend professional development opportunities
- Any other relevant tasks as agreed with the Public Affairs Manager

Knowledge, training and qualifications

Essential

- Sound knowledge of the workings of the UK Government and parliamentary procedure and a working knowledge of the devolved administrations
- Interest in and understanding of the external political environment and political developments as they affect the BHF
- Understanding of the UK research ecosystem and the healthcare system in England, and the ability to use this knowledge to devise creative ways to influence decision-makers
- Understanding of how social media can help add value to public affairs activity
- Understanding of the role of the BHF and other health and medical research charities in general and particularly in the political arena
- Graduate or equivalent
- IT literate with knowledge of Microsoft Office

Desirable

- Sound understanding of political campaigning and of the interplay between campaigning and public affairs

Experience

Essential

- Some experience of working in or with the UK Parliament, a public affairs agency or in-house public affairs team
- Experience of engaging with political stakeholders, or other senior audiences, ideally in a persuasive manner
- Proven ability to write clearly, concisely and persuasively for different audiences in a variety of formats, and of summarising complex information swiftly and accurately
- Experience of working jointly with a range of individuals and partner organisations

Desirable

- Proven track record in public affairs
- Experience of involving patients in influencing work

Skills and attributes

- Ability to understand and interpret complex policy issues and express them effectively to a range of audiences
- Ability to successfully influence colleagues and external stakeholders
- Ability to plan own workload, ensure effective time management and meet deadlines
- Good communication skills, both oral and written, including the ability to adapt to your audience
- A commitment to high standards of relationship management in order to achieve the best outcome
- Ability to work on own initiative, proactively seizing opportunities to benefit BHF
- A commitment to promoting and improving cardiovascular health
- A good listener, able to empathise with a broad range of people
- Flexible, able to work unsociable hours when occasionally require and confident in navigating uncertainty
- Collaborative working style, happy working with others to achieve agreed policy and public affairs objectives
- Effective interpersonal and negotiation skills, including ability to develop good working relationships with senior stakeholders

Safeguarding

At British Heart Foundation (BHF), we are committed to creating a safe and rewarding environment for all of our people to work and volunteer. This means we have a robust safeguarding policy to ensure everyone is treated properly, and a whistle blowing service so people can raise any concerns they have confidentially.

Data protection

During your employment this role will not encounter any personal data. If you find yourself with access to personal data you are not authorised to have, you must report it to your line manager and the IT Service Desk immediately.

How to apply

To apply for this role please use the apply button via the jobs page on our website.
